

Helping you talk about income protection

For Adviser use only

We've put together this step-by-step guide to help make it easier for you to sell income protection, for today and tomorrow.

1. Get to know them

Before mentioning the words 'insurance' or 'protection', it's a good idea to understand your client's needs. What are their interests? What's important to them? Use this to create a detailed fact find about their lives.

2. Create a budget

It's really important to complete a budget planner so you can see your client's essential outgoings. What is their 'luxury' spending? What do they have in savings right now?

3. Use our Deadline to Breadline calculator

Using your client's financial information, our calculator can work out how long it would take for your client to be on the breadline if they were to run out of money today. They'll probably be surprised to find out that the average time period in the UK is just 8 weeks!

4. Choose the right cover amount

The amount of cover you could recommend to your client is derived from the budget planner. What does your client need to survive on each month? If they can't afford the full cover, then protect the essentials to ensure they keep the roof above their heads.

5. Work out their deferred period

What sick pay does your client receive from their employer? Understanding this helps you quote on the correct deferred period (the time period before the policy begins to pay the monthly benefit).

6. Choose the right product option

Clients have different needs and budgets. Our cover options, such as our level or increasing cover, and 12 or 24 month Low Cost Option, gives clients the choice to pick the right product for their lifestyle and needs.
